Required Training for Fire Safety Directors

Diversified Security Solutions would like to advise you on a recent change in the requirements for Fire Safety Directors.

Starting October 1, 2010 all current Fire Safety Directors must attend and pass a 7 hour Continuing Education course from an accredited FDNY school, in order to renew their Certification of Fitness. All FS Directors must take this course by September 30, 2014. Pursuant to §113-12, the course will review and train the FS Directors in building operations, maintenance, and record keeping.

This course can be taken at any point before a FS Directors Certificate of Fitness is up for renewal. If your renewal is in the near future you still have the one year grace period to finish this Course before your Certificate officially expires. The New York City Fire Department is encouraging taking the required 7 Hour Course well before your Certificate is due for renewal.

If you have any questions concerning the course please contact our office for details as we have recently become accredited to teach this course by the New York City Fire Department.
